

Van Pace

Van Pace is the Director, Office of Grant Policy and Oversight for the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). She's worked in every level of operation, policy and oversight during her grant management career, e.g. Federal, State, Local government, non-profit and profit. Prior to employment with the DHS, she worked for the Department of Energy and the Federal Emergency Management Agency in both program and fiscal management of the assistance awards at two Regional Offices as well as the Washington, D. C. Headquarters offices. Before employment with the Federal government, she was a Director of a non-profit agency and worked as a Fiscal Officer for several other non-profit agencies. She also worked as a contractor for several State and Federal agencies assigned to monitor financial assistance awards for statutory/regulatory compliance as well as financial management, and provide training on assistance awards stewardship.